“OPEN YO EYES” 2005 TOUR

“OPEN YO EYES” is a series of monologues resulting from interviews conducted with adolescence within the South Florida area. “Open Yo Eyes”, premier will take place this summer on July 31, 2004 this play has been one of No Jive Productions most successful and meaningful theatrical presentations to date. The tour will begin in Miami, then to Tampa and ending in Tallahassee producing two shows per city.

“OPEN YO EYES” is a family play that will take the audience on a fantastic and often confusing roller coaster ride of urban teenage life. The show’s setting takes place in Big Momma’s house and within this house her family, who by all standards is a dysfunctional one. The matriarch “Big Momma” has many revelations about her household and finds herself dealing with things such as domestic violence, a family member who discovers he is HIV positive and another who has issues with self expression. In dealing with the issues that are plaguing her household she maintains the importance of family and family values. These values transcend all socioeconomic, racial, and gender related barriers.

Below are some of the indicators why you should support this program:

- The rapid growing cases of HIV/AIDS affecting our youth
- Lack of communication among parents and children
- High prevalence of children of drug or alcohol abusers
- Racial discrimination among peers
- Teens dealing with peer pressure
- Lack of educational information in the community

No Jive Productions stands as a symbol for how the arts can be used to enrich our lives. Our success has been made possible because it is community productions funded by individuals. None of these programs would be made possible without ongoing support. We continue to face the extraordinary ongoing challenge of raising the funds necessary to produce the many programs that our communities have come to enjoy. This is always a formidable task but with your partnership this can be one we can achieve.
